Police, Fire & Water Dept. on Strike

IT CANNOT HAPPEN HERE ?

By C. Leon de Aryan

During the middle of December the police, firemen and employes of the water department of Montreal, Canada, went on a perfectly successful strike in wartime. It lasted really less than 12 hours when the authorities decided that the strikers were in the right and granted all their demands. During the actual 24 hours of the strike the city had no police and fire protection and when fires broke out there was no response to duty from the firemen.

There are many socalled Americans who always point out to us benighted America Firsters, that foreign governments are more efficiently administered in certain foreign countries, that we ought to pattern our government after those foreigners. This attitude is so bad, that today our administration of government is patterned after Fascism, Nazism and Communism, and Americanism is considered out-of-date and of the horse and buggy age by our Chief Executive who makes hash of the U. S. Constitution by burocratic edicts.

Especially have we always been told that our British cousins are superior government administrators. Their experts have come over and are here today as unofficial advisors to various of our own departments, inoculating us with, and inculcating into our administration, foreign and un-American methods, contrary to the American, traditional concept of citizenship and citizens' rights. But there is no greater poverty and maladministration in any white man's country than one finds in London's slums and coal districts, for England is a feudal, exploitative nation of its own people and the "law and order" inculcated there is to make the commoner abide by the dictates of the "betters". As a result, revolt sets in in the form of rapid spread of socialistic and communistic ideologies and their actual entry in government.

Why should we in the U. S. A. imitate those bankrupts of foreign lands? Here we have established a Republic where every man is an equal and there is no distinction between commoners and aristocrats, thus no feudal relationship in law, even though there is in practice, because of the heritage of colonial ancestry. We have neglected to adjust our practical execution of government progressively to the ideal of EQUITY for all, instead we have had our eyes focussed to the socialistic and communistic "progress" of the old world. Socialism progresses only under slavery, as an antidote to it. That is England, that is Britain.

The Montreal strike shows that the municipal employees were entitled to better pay and conditions of employment, but had to resort to a strike against the government to achieve their dues. And this in time of war.

There can be no greter indictment against the British government in Canada. The attitude that force must be used to put equity into practice works into the hands of the direct action advocates. It is revolution by force and violence. The violence that was done to the property of citizens who had paid for fire protection but found themselves unprepared and helplessly exposed to the fire menace. Fortunately no major crimes resulted.

In the U. S. A. the notion prevails that no branch of the government would dare go on strike against the government. But Canadians got away with it and the labor union movement is international in scope and practice.

Suppose direct actionists got control of our municipal unions!? What predicacment would we in San Diego find ourselves over night?

You say it could not happen here? But we have regimentation today. We have Fascism and Communism in government thru OPA regulations. We have strikes in war time. We have the labor racket, supported by the Wagner Act and the Supreme Court. We discovered that the Chief Executive has the balance of power. When he wanted to play in with the labor crowd, he called it a "new deal" and incited them against the common citizens and against industry, protected them in every imaginable way to disrupt law and order, and terrorize us and monopolize racketeer control over employment. After he did all the damage possible and the labor racket controls even the Ford industries now, the Chief Executive is sick and tired of his "new deal" and wants us to forget all about it and elect him a fourth time. But the spirit he inculcated, that by direct action organized mobs may gain control, this spirit is not eradicated by a mere disavowal of the term "new deal" before a crowd of newspapermen. The example prevails and gains. Montreal did it, demonstrated it successfully. The direct actionists scored a victory and now watch and see who comes next.

They never sleep! They work and prepare while you forget.

DESCENT OF THE GODS

"Man is superior in many ways, and lower than the ants in many others. He can fly in the air, and fling his voice around the world, turn night into day with filaments, grind lenses that draw the moon down till its mountain peaks are only 20 miles away, take pictures of men's insides, send heat and light or horsepower across 400 miles of desert in copper wire, listen to thought of seven continents by fingering a knob, or plat the yawning heavens with a trigger hair and tell you 20,000 years ahead what second of what minute of what hour of what day the sun will be eclipsed, and where the creeping shadow will be seen, and teach fleas to dance.

"Yet give this wonder man a simple problem such as how to keep from killing several million other wonder men just like him each 20 years or so, and he is baffled and destroyed.

"This man who knows more than the gods of of the spectrum of the stars, who comprehends the structure of a leaf, splits atoms, traps whales, counts molecules, knows not enough to grasp the simplest truths and bend them to his will. He hails the 'Golden Rule' as golden and puts it on a shelf to be forgotten, and makes new rules of lead but I shall not despair. For man has in him all the seeds of his own betterment and one day they shall sprout. When that day comes the vine shall reach to heaven and the gods climb down.

BEESEMYER SCANDAL

Editor of The Broom:

Received your Nov. 22 paper. Thanks! have been trying to get that Herald telling of the H. Beesemyer case and had a hard time securing it but finally got it yesterday and then they only got me the sheet with the piece in it, however am enclosing my paper with it and trust it reaches you O. K.

Now we have state Bank Inspectors to inform the public the true condition of a Bank, yet they let Beesemyer fail with two Banks owing the local public Three Million Dollars. His sentence should have been for life to hard work and then got after the Bank Inspectors and found out how they ever happened to discover a small shortage of Three Million.

We need more papers like your telling of the rotteness of conditions right here under our nose.

As I get some good things from time to time will mail them to you!

Respectfully, — — LOS ANGELES.

Do We Have an Astral President ?

MAGIC, MAGIC, MAGIC Everywhere!
But it's Black Magic !

WASHINGTON— On Thanksgiving Day, November 25, President Roosevelt vetoed two acts of Congress.

Were those vetoes constitutional?

A distinguished legal authority, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, is of the opinion that they WERE NOT constitutional.

One of the acts vetoed was the resolution designating December 7—Pearl Harbor anniversary—as Armed Services Honor Day. The other was a bill, H. R. 1155, for the financial relief, in a small sum of money, of Capt. Leland M. Mower and Lieut. Percy K. Morrison, Army officers.

It is not permissible to state when President Roosevelt left Washington for his conferences abroad. But a United Press dispatch from Cairo, dated December 2, states that on November 25, the date of the veto messages, the President enjoyed a Thanksgiving dinner in that Egyptian city, and it gives the menu. Obviously authentic.

Now, let us look at the Congressional Record of Wednesday, December 1. On page one of that issue the veto message of the Honor Day resolution appears, the concluding paragraph of the veto message reads as follows:

"For the foregoing reason, I am constrained to withhold approval of this resolution. This joint resolution was presented to me on November 25, 1943.

Franklin D. Roosevelt,
The White House,
November 25, 1943."

The veto message on H. R. 1155. concludes as follows:

"In these circumstances, the responsibility of the officers in question is apparent. The bill was presented to me on November 25.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt,
The White House,
November 25, 1943."

An interesting feature in this record is the marvelous machinery of the White House as it operates in the absence of the President.

On Thursday, November 25, when he was in Cairo, the President interrupted his work on an international conference to examine, study and veto two relatively unimportant acts of Congress.

Six days later, on Wednesday, December 1, those veto messages have been received in Washington, and have been sent to the Senate and the House of Representatives. That's speed on anybody's cyclometer!

Since there is no provision in the Constitution under which a President could give a power of attorney to any other individual, since acts of Congress must be presented to him, and acted upon by himself alone, the perfection of White House arrangements for communicating with the President on official business becomes apparent.

But is a veto of an act of Congress, when made by a President when he is absent from the country at a distance of several thousands of miles from the seat of the Government of the United States, constitutional?

This point has been quietly debated, off the record as it were, at the Capitol. The opinion of unconstitutionality referred to above is that of a prominent DEMOCRATIC Senator.

He does not believe that business thus transacted by the President outside of the United States is legal, or that its effect is binding.

Curiously enough, both of the veto messages here under discussion are dated, not from Cairo, Egypt, where the President was on November 25, 1943, but from the White House in Washington, where—unless he has acquired the art of shifting his astral body from place to place—the President most certainly was not, on November 25.

Thus, anyhow the pretense that the action was taken at the Capital of the United States, has been maintained, even though it is fictional.

This question of constitutionality has never arisen. It has never been tested. In the matter of the Honor Day veto it could not be.

The veto of H. R. 1155 has been referred back to the House Committee on Claims. If subsequently the House should fail to pass this bill over the veto, an interesting possibility might conceivably arise:

The two officers concerned might bring suit in the Court of Claims and base their claim on the allegation of the illegality of the veto. This would open the way to a test before the Supreme Court of a most interesting question.—George Rothwell Brown in S. F. Examiner.

Freedom For Radio Speech

WASHINGTON—The senate commerce committee has framed a bill designed to negate the Frankfurter decision which gives the federal communications commission a tight grip on radio.

Under the ex-Harvard professor's ruling, the FCC can control, regulate and censor the rates and contents of any program. In other words, this agency, the members of which are appointed by the president, is handed complete domination of the air waves by the supreme court decree.

The proposed White-Wheeler bill, which is almost sure to pass, will give the broadcasting systems the same sort of freedom now enjoyed by the American press. It will release the "chains" and local stations from the shackles the government bureau has tried to attach as a result of the Frankfurter dicta.

In view of the part radio may play in the approaching primaries and elections, both Democrats and Republicans are demanding quick action on the legislation.

Incidentally, if the measure is acceptable to both senate and house, it will be the most severe rebuke the congress has administered to the high tribunal since it was reorganized by President Roosevelt. Of course, the Capitol Hill boys take special delight in slapping down Justice Frankfurter, the reputed "grandpappy" of the new deal.

570 Mohammend born, at Mecca; fled to Medina (the Hejira) in 622; poisoned to death by a Jewess, it is said, in 632.

Since a typographical error occured in last week's issue we are producing this authentic quotation from the Almanac. Will the authors be included among the 34 or so publishers, indicted for "anti-Semitism" by stating historic facts?

FDR, CHURCHILL, CHIANG AND CORPORAL KATZ

NEW YORK — The parents of Corporal Harry Katz of Brooklyn, New York, are proud these days because of the role that their son has played at the Roosevelt-Churchill-Chiang Conference in Cairo. Dispatches from the Egyptian capital reveal that Harry was one of four U. S. soldiers appointed to keep guard outside the villa where the President and his advisers were staying.

Open Letter to Sol Bloom

Dear Congressman Sol Bloom:

I hope all the shabbos goyim will forgive this analogy. You probably still remember from your childhood, Congressman, that a shabbos goy was a non-Jew who on Saturdays and holidays would perform for a pittance such minor chores as the Jew himself is not permitted to perform on those days, as for instance, piling coal into the stove to keep the fires going or putting out the lights It seems now, on reviewing your actions and utterances for the past few months that your entire prestige in Washington society and in administration circles rests on being a shabbos goy for the State Department and performing certain duties which the administration itself finds distasteful.

DISCHARGED TO GET PICK OF JOBS

Many fine Jewish young men and women are now being discharged from our Army and Navy. They have jobs to go to, but their well being is jeopardized by the lack of living facilities. We are all duty-bound to help these young folks to readjust themselves back to civilian life.

Jewish families are urged to RENT their spare rooms (no meals) to the young Jewish veterans of this war.

GEORGE N. PEEK

George N. Peek, 70 retired manufacturer, died at his home at Rancho Santa Fe.

Mr. Peek was a native of Polo, Ill., and served as president of the Federal export-import bank. He also was president of the Moline Plow Co., of Moline, Illinois.

Six years ago Mr. Peek came to Rancho Santa Fe, after a career during which he was special advisor to President Roosevelt, on foreign trade. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Georgia F. Peek, and a brother, Burton F. Peek, of Moline..

A Visit with George N. Peek

It was some three or four years ago. A friend of Peek called at my home and invited me to go with him and meet George. Of course, I was interested to meet the man who was Bernie Baruch's right hand, together with Gen. Johnson for the NRA, while Peek ran the AAA.

Peek had retired from government service and did not think highly of Roosevelt's administration. He was rather inclined to side with America against Roosevelt. He had an idea that America was not getting a square deal from the administration. That is what I found out while sitting in his study on Rancho Santa Fe, in company with his friend.

He had heard of me, had listened to my radio talks and was quite free in his conversation on whatever topic we chose. He being Baruch's man, naturally I led the conversation to the topic of Jews. What his attitude was will remain a matter not recorded by me, but seeing that he was open minded on the subject, and was searching to understand more fully why Jews were being persecuted, I presented the following version:

"There was a period in Abraham's days when there were no Jews, but just Semitic, or should we say, Arabic nomads. Abraham was one of them. They were idolators, while Abraham had come in touch with the Iranian tribes in his wanderings, seeking pastures for his flocks on the borders of Persia and became acquainted with the Zoroastrian Sunworshippers who recognized only one God, the Lord Mazda. Thus Abraham became a monotheist and adapted the Mazda teachings of Monotheism to the mentality of his tribe. That is the origin of the socalled Jewish religion and race. Zoroastrians, or Aryans, being agriculturists, have settled homes and are monogamous. But as Abraham and his nomadic Semites wandered much about, Abraham and his successors realized that their tribes would not adhere to monogamy or to racial purity, thus the code was evolved which forbad Jews to intermarry outside their own tribe.

"But in their unsettled roaming, Jews young and old, considered it great sport to catch women where they could and anyone who has been in Arabia, Mesopotamia and Palestine knows that all sorts of races are represented there. It is a highway from Africa, over Asia Minor to Europe, as well as to Eastern Asia. One finds there Negroes, Dravidian Hindus, Malays and Mongols of all descriptions. Stealing women was considered especially smart and the Jewish patriarchs kept as many as they could lay their hands on and feed. From this mixture, of collored and white offspring, the Jew of today resulted.

"Prejudice against mixed offspring has always existed, or should we say, it was condemned by Jewish and natural law. The Aryan condemned it very strongly and if you have lived in the East, you know that the Negroes condemn it, so do the Hindus, the Malayans and the Mongols. A Chinese halfbreed for example is shunned by pure Chinese. The Negroes act likewise. Eurasians are a class by themselves. The pure breed always considers itself superior to the mongrel.

"Now there are two results from crossbreeding. One is organic, physical; the other is psychologic, social.

"Since the Jewish law interdicted crossbreeding, but it went on just the same, the white woman, married or concubine, claimed a privilege for her children above the mixed breeds. That started quite a lot of jealousy, friction, enmity and actual antagonism and bloody fights within the family tribes and homes. The children, too, considered themselves superior breeds when of white women and those of colored mothers received the first shocks that resulted in inferiority complexes.

"The nature of the inferiority complex is that the victom looks for a chance to "show them". Thus the mongrel Jews were always looking for a chance to outsmart the white Jews and get even, while later on, as the crossbreeding increased the proportion of mongrels over the whites, the Jew was eternally smoldering with the desire to "show the world".

"The natural gifts of the white man, as well as any other race that remains within its own boundaries in marriage, is honesty and plainness. There is no need of duplicity as long as one deals with one's own kind. They all are of a type and each knows what to expect and what to give.

"But as soon as the races mix, the lust to outdo prevails in the offspring, as a revenge on the pure breeds who look down upon them. And no rules are sacred anymore. The tribal taboos don't hold, because the taboo of booth races was violated in the crossbreeding. Thus duplicity, trickery, outsmarting, taking advantage and cheating, becomes a virtue, a sign of superiority. The intellect is sharpened to take advantage of good faith and break it; to exploit credulity and betray the unwary. That is the weapon used by the mongrels against the racials, whom the mongrels call "nationals" while they call themselves "internationals". The various nations find themselves at war with the same breed of internationals the world over, as the internationals migrate and spread.

"One must realize that Monotheism in Judaism is nothing but Zend worship. As it became diluted with Rabbinic latitude to adjust itself to the unbridled licentiousness of the race that emerged from the mixture of all races, one finds the most hair raising and unbelievable claims ascribed to "God" in murderous instructions and the glorification of spoliation of "virgins of the enemy" by Jewish soldiers. The old Testament is a mixture of pure Zend or Aryan doctrine, such as loving God with all one's soul and might, and the neighbor as oneself, together with the cruelest Semitic idolatry of killing everybody, except the virgins and these to be kept for the Jewish soldiers.

"One group of Jews migrated after the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple by the Romans, after Christ's crucifixion, along the north shores of Africa into Spain, Netherlands, England and America, or Germany.

Another group wandered north into what is known as Russia, mixed with the nomadic Mongols in the Caspic plains and settled in Poland and all along the Carpathian mountains. From there, too, they went to Germany and finally spread all over the world and some back to Palestine.

"The Mongolian Jews of Poland are known as the Ashkenazis. The Spanish Jews are the Sephardim. Now the Spanish Jews fared much better than the Ashkenazis. The climate was warmer and more commerce ran through their countries. Thus their general outlook was better, they had more and got it easier, were generally more bighearted. Your friend Baruch, Mr. Peek, is one of them.

"But the Ashkenazis had a terrible time. Being intermarried with native Mongols, the stock deteriorated very fast. The land was poor, they were overcrowded and the long winters made life miserable. Thus the Polish Jew is more or less a child of misery and his outlook is likewise. Misery loves company, so we find they stick closely together as a clan against the world around them who dislikes the mongrels in race and religion.

"Naturally, the desire to "show them" is reared to the highest potence in the Ashkenazis. The Rothschild clan is its offspring.

"Whenever Jews find themselves transplanted in countries where there is abundance, the Aryan in him comes to the front and if his children are raised in public schools, not afflicted by Kashrut, or Kosher prejudices, as was the case with many Jews transplanted to America, the Jew became redeemed and a good citizen. The desire to outdo his neighbor by all means, disappeared because there was no object in doing so. The Jew was happy to be accepted in 'Gentile society', intermarry and become an American. Religiously he went to Reform Judaism and was quite broadminded.

"The Spanish Jews also succeeded in better measure to hold the colored blood down, because being more prosperous white women were easily had.

"Nevertheless we find that the old curse of smartness, an affliction of the inferiority complex, creeps out and the more orthodox Jews we get over here in America, the more our merchants complain about unfair trade practices and ruthless price cutting and competition. The more trickery takes the place of plain dealing. This is a problem we are going to face even more in the future.

"As we introduced the black slaves and have them now as a our problem in the south; as we brought in the Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos and others as cheap labor on the Pacific; so the Jew becomes our headache. Generations of persecution made him suspicious; he has no faith in good will, does not know what it means. He believes in outsmarting us at every turn in the road and we and he will suffer the consequences."

It was getting late and Peek and our friend had sat listening without interrupting me once.

"This is the most comprehensive outline I have ever had brought to my attention. It makes it easy to understand so many things now," said Peek. Our conversation turned to other subjects.

Before I left, naturally, I got a subscription to the BROOM from Peek and he kept it up to the end.

ARE YOU A GOOD SAMARITAN?

Then—"CAST THY BREAD UPON THE WATERS, AND IT SHALL RETURN TO THEE AFTER MANY DAYS."

The finest story in the New Testament is that of the Good Samaritan. Three of the four Gospel writers thought it so important that they included it in their biographies of Christ.

A certain New Dealer of that day sought to entrap Christ by asking him, "What must a man do to be saved?" Christ answered, "Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart, mind, soul and strength, and thy neighbor as thyself."

Then the left-winger asked another question, "Who is my neighbor?" Christ answered by telling the beautiful story of the stranger who had been beset by thieves, beaten, robbed and left to die. The New Dealers and other Socialists passed him by. Then the Good Samaritan saw him, had pity on him, and, although he was an utter stranger, lifted him up, carried him into a tavern, and left money for his keep, saying, "If this be not enough, I will pay the rest when I return next week."

In Christ's mind, there is nothing finer in human relationship than to help those who have been assaulted, beaten, mistreated and robbed of their time, money, reputation or friends.

For 13 years, The Broom has striven day and night with might and main to be an honest, conscientious, progressive, patriotic publication. It has "hewed to the line, letting the chips fall where they may." It has never knowingly published an unpatriotic or seditious line.

Ye Editor, desiring to increase his usefulness to America, had, in 1942, entered himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination to Congress.

His enemies, desiring surely to eliminate him from the race, had his name included in an untrue, unjust and diabolical Federal mass indictment in far away Washintgon, D C.

He spent six months in jail awaiting trial, and was finally released on $1000 bond, after it was shown that the indictments were false and without merit in law or fact.

All during the past summer, according to the broadcasts of "Walter, the Russian", great groups of aliens in New York City and CIO unions in San Diego, signed petitions asking for the reindictment of 33 persons whom they had never met, had never seen, and whose writings they had never read.

This emotional mob pressure upon the Department of Justice in Washington, D. C., resulted in the calling of a third grand jury, which was impaneled on October 26. It has been hearing the reports and testimony of the New Deal Gestapo and is expected to return an indictment around the first of the new year.

Despite all the sad motions of our great Republic toward despotic power and destructive bureaucracy, thank God there still remains the freedom of friends to raise money and support the persecuted victims of a bureaucratic despotism!

It is a fundamental of Anglo-Saxon law in all English-speaking countries that a man is PRESUMED TO BE INNOCENT UNTIL HE IS PROVED GUILTY IN A COURT OF LAW. So the courts in both England and America have invariably ruled that friends, relatives, acquaintances—anybody—may come to the assistance of anyone accused of crime.

As the great encyclopedia of law, Corpus Juris, 11th volume, page 249, says, "The rule seems to be well established that a person is not guilty of maintenance who furnishes assistance, in money or otherwise, to a poor man to enable him to carry on his suit" (or defend himself in a court of law). "The law extends its charity to the charitable and compassionate and will not pronounce it maintenance for one to aid his poor friend and thus to assist in protecting him from what he deems an oppression or a wrong."

In a great book, "The Machinery of Justice in England," by R. M. Jackson, Solicitor of the Supreme Court of England, it is related, page 122, that defense funds for poor prisoners are often raised by "collections of sixpences and coppers."

Readers of The Broom are undoubtedly the "salt of the earth"— patriots, believers in and fighters for our Constituion and the Bill of Rights.

Jews Incite to Hatred Against Christianity

Editor's Note: While Jews have signed a petition to the President of the U. S. A. to have me indicted a third time in Washington, D. C., for spreading "anti-Semitism", my crime consists of pointing to the fact that Jews are perverting our government into a despotic Gestapo to enrich themselves and are preaching contempt of our Constitution and hatred of the Christ. Below is a verbatim copy from their own paper which they claim is "An Independent Medium for the Dissemination of Jewish News and Views". Note how this editorial of theirs disapproves of our Christian attitude and views. Who is spreading hatred and disunity? This editorial reveals it. They attack the divinity of the Christ.

Sholem Asch's Missionary Literature

(JEWISH EXAMINER, Nov. 19, 1943, Brooklyn)

The writing of books about Jesus in the framework of the novel has frequently been found to be a profitable business. Such books as "Ben Hur" and "The Robe" made fabulous fortunes for their authors and publishers. But Sholem Asch is the first Jewish writer of note who has turned his distinguished talents to this business.

We do not begrudge Mr. Asch his profits from "The Nazarene" and his latest work, "The Apostle". But we deplore the perversion of his great literary gifts to a cause which is unJewish, if it is not actually hostile to Judaism.

Asch's ability as a writer, as a master of imagery, is universally recognized. "The Nazarene" and "The Apostle" are literary works of art. They are word-tapestries of rare beauty and skill. But they are more than samples of fictional craftsmanship or literary technique. They are interpretations. They are theological essays cast in the form of the novel. They are without any doubt works of religious propaganda, and they are distinctly propaganda not in behalf of Judaism. They are christological throughout and sometimes their christology is saccharine to the point of nausea.

When "The Nazarene" appeared, it struck many as a piece of literary double-talk designed to picture Jesus as either a man or a deity, depending on the reader's point of view. This impression, however, must be revised in the light of Asch's latest work "The Apostle", intended to be a companion to or sequel of "The Nazarene". "The Apostle" is much bolder. It is unequivocal in its delineation of the founders and the doctrines of the Christian religion. Although the book abounds in anchronisms and historical inaccuracies, it exalts Saul as the greatest man in the entire history of the human race. This characterization leaves no room for doubt that in "The Nazarene" Asch intended Jesus to be understood as a deity, for if he were only a man he would have been of lower rank than Saul.

Used In Christian Theological Seminaries

Asch himself would disclaim that he is a theologian and would assert that he wrote these two books " for pleasure", not as theological propaganda. Yet they are more theological than the pronouncements of the Nicene Fathers. Both "The Nazarene" and "The Apostle" are being used today as textbooks in Christian theological seminaries. Asch himself, although he is a poor public speaker, is being deluged with invitations to lecture to the faculties and student bodies of Christian schools and colleges.

These two books, although they are designated as "novels", are theological with a vengeance because, to the disadvantage of Judaism, they present Christian teachings in the most attractive form possible, in the untheological, untechnical language of narrative. According to Asch's interpretation, Christ is the consummation, the fulfillment of the dream of Judaism. It has always been the chief contention of Christian theologians that Judaism only paved the way, laid the groundwork, for the coming of the Christian Messiah, that the bible of the Jew is the "Old" Testament and the bible of the Christian is the "New" Testament, and that the New superseded the Old. And that is the contention which Asch champions, especially in his "Apostle".

Mr. Asch is a theologian. But his theology is full of the errors and distortions which have made life difficult for the Jews. He is by no means a Hebrew scholar and knows nothing of the Greek language and literature which were so prevalent during the period which his books attempt to delineate. No doubt Asch did a lot of research work, but he follows mainly the Christian sources. These books, whatever their literary value may be, prove that Asch is unqualified to give the world a scholarly and authentic portrayal of the beginnings of Christianity. If he were qualified, he never would have perpetuated the old exploded myth based on a mistranslation which allegedly finds confirmation of the Christian Messiah in the prophets of Israel.

If "The Apostle" is not missionary then there has never been any missionary literature in the world. In these two missionary books, Asch clearly espouses the cause of Christianity of which he is patently enamored. If that is true, and we have no doubt of it, then we have no alternative but to believe that Asch has repudiated Judaism. If Asch is sincere, if he wrote his books not merely for profit, we would not be at all surprised if he goes the rest of the way and has himself baptized. Having repudiated the Jewish religion, he might as well repudiate the Jewish people. We have no choice but to count Sholem Asch among the Meshumodim.

There is not the shadow of a doubt that books such as these, especially because they spring from the genius of a renowned Jew, will reinforce the hostility of the bigot. Whether they will hurt the Jewish cause is questionable. Under the impact of such literature, it is possible to conceive that a few individual Jews here and there, especially in these days of unexampled trial and tribulation, may falter in their faith and even succumb to the blandishments of Asch's missionary zeal. But Jews as a people who have weathered many storms, will survive this shock too.

Editor's Note: We don't advocate the Jewish Examiner be denied mailing privileges for inciting Jews against Christ and Christian Thought. They incited the mob against "the Meshumod Jesus" 2000 years ago and had him crucified. They cannot crucify Mr. Asch, so they do to him the next worst thing for daring to exalt Jesus. We believe in freedom of the Press and religious views. But not so the Jews. When you don't knuckle down to them they boycott, stone and shackle you. They indict you in Washington, D. C.

Is There Really A Meat Shortage ?

By George Peck in the Herald, Hot Springs, N.M.

Frankly, this columnist is puzzled—he has heard so many conflicting opinions regarding the meat shortage, or as some claim, the alleged shortage. In the News Letter of the Arizona Cattle Growers Association he ran across a letter written by Frank C. Brophy, owner of Babacomari Ranch, located near Elgin, Arizona. This rancher also is puzzled about the meat situation but after asking some leading questions has arrived at certain conclusions which we pass on to our readers. His letter read in part:

"(1) The livestock business is being purposely thrown into a state of confusion by officials in certain branches of the government in Washington.

"(2) The officials responsible for this hold relatively obscure positions and are probably either practicing Socialists or Communists, or affiliated in some way with these movements.

"(3) It is a standard policy of Communistic attack to first disorganize and create confusion in order to clear the way for the intrusion of their plan at some later date.

"(4) The livestock industry being made up of a relatively large number of small operators who are extremely individualistic in both thought and action, must be liquidated if the Communistic plans are to get anywhere in the agricultural sphere.

"This is essentially the Moscow system of economics. I am of the opinion that if the agricultural people and the livestock people will cut out pussyfooting and go to work on these gentlemen, who have got into key positions in the government, and who are trying to put into effect their foreign ideas, we will be doing the nation a patriotic service. It will take a certain amount of courage and fortitude to do this, but at that, it is a lot easier job than the fellows have to face every day who go out on bombing missions. It seemes to me that it would be cowardly if we fail at home, while we let those fellows go out and get killed for something they believe they are fighting to preserve on the fighting front and which we are supposed to be safeguarding at home."

RULE and RUIN

Had I written the above quoted letter of Frank C. Brophy, the New York Jews, who signed the monster petition to the President to get me indicted a third time as a "Nazi conspirator", would claim that this letter originated in Nazi Germany. That will be the testimony of the government paid "professors and experts" who will tell the jury that everything appearing in the Broom in opposition to the New Deal, its Jews and Communistis, is exactly "along the lines of Nazi propaganda", therefore Nazi inspired.

But when every thinking American becomes "Nazi inspired" then there might not be enough jails to put us all in unless F D R makes arrangements with Stalin to ship us to Siberia.

Brophy hit the nail on the head.

Not only the livestock business but every business run by small operators is purposely thrown into confusion by the Communists and Socialists in the New Deal offices, to ruin the small operators and put them out of business. Then the international bankers of Wall street uick up the vacated field and thru corporations owned or controlled by them, "consolidate" the business and dictate its course.

This is why the New Deal came into being in the first instance. This is why Herbert Hoover was blackened by Charles Michelson and F D R was elected 3 times in a row. This is why Roosevelt supported the labor racketeers and forced all workers in defense industries into the unions.

You will notice that Roosevelt is playing a double game. As long as individuals are still in business the O P A and the labor racket are after them to ruin them with government sanction. That's why F D R packed the Supreme Court.

As soon as "the right people" in Washington and New York control the corporations that took over the bankrupt field of business and industry, Roosevelt is thru with the new deal and has become conservative to keep the new owners in possession of the loot.

Now this process of new deal and no more new deal is a double deal till all Americans are bankrupt and the alien crowd controls America's soul, hide and hair.

There is no need being confused, the purpose and method is too plain for comfort.

U. S. MAIL

When I returned from San Francisco and asked my son to bring me the car. I disccovered that it had been used in the service of Uncle Sam to deliver mail. A large card "U. S. Mail" was stuck on the windshield.

I had to smile, the Broom car delivering U. S. Mail while the editor is to be burned up a 3rd time for "sedition" in Washington, D. C. Evidently the San Diego authorities know that I raised 2 boys, cultivating in them a deep sense of loyalty to Principle and the true form of U. S. government. Both of them are self-starters and are guided in their lives by the rule of intellectual honesty, loyal to Law and Order, so they need never fear to be themselves.

This car incident reminds me of the other. When I was arrested July 22, 1942, I was a member of the Federal Jury panel in San Diego. The jury commissioner knew my character. Locally and in Los Angeles, the Federal Grand Jury twice refused to indict me, so, while I implanted the sense of integrity in my own two boys, a Washington Grand Jury, upon request from the White House, charged me with demoralizing the boys and girls in Washington by publishing a weekly in San Diego.

Those incidents exemplify the evils of government by remote control. The very thing our Founding Fathers complained of in the Declaration of Independence from the King's misrule. Evidently the Founding Fathers are as guilty as I am, of the same offense, and that's what the D. C. Grand Jury is advertising to the world only the poor fellows don't know it yet.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD

Because chiropractors were not eligible for payment of insurance claims, over 2,000 San Diego Consolidated employes walked into the personnel office and demanded immediate cancellation of their group insurance as written by the Aetna Life Insurance company, according to the California Chiropratic association.

Thereupon, the aircraft company notified the insurance company that claims made by employes through chiroprators must be paid or Consolidated would be forced to insure in some other company. Since then Chiropractic claims have been paid.—Kenosha Labor News, Oct. 28, 1943.

Perry Visit Aroused Japan

SAN FRANCISCO— Aside from its crystallization of the American purpose in the Pacific war, the Cairo meeting served to remind the American people that Japanese aggression didn't start December 7, 1941.

That aggression, which is an intense spur to us, quite assuring that the Japanese will be whittled down to an appropriate size in this century of history, was but the culmination of a long and systematic course of aggression, well documented for 46 years, though acctually in process for about 80 years. Our trouble was we never bothered to look at the documents.

Excepting a few esoteric tourists, most of us have been unaware of the island of Formosa, a delightful place, though somewhat infested with Chinese pirates in time past. Still, it had been a Chinese island for millenniums when the Japanese began snooping around there.

Their snooping began but a few years after the Perry visit, showing that they were not at all slow to get the meaning of their new state in the comity of peoples. Formosa was opened in 1860 to commerce and the missions, and almost immediately the Japanese began their characteristic historical method of aggression by "Intervening" to protect everybody from the pirates. No nation on earth has carried this "intervention" method to such a finished state as the Japanese on the prowl. They infiltrated and ultimately dominated the island for twenty or thirty years before they were ready to document their work.

They tied this up in a package with Korea in 1895. In 1885 the Japanese and the Chinese agreed to stay out of Korea, a nation ethnically separated from both of them. This was the first of that long series of Japanese agreements which aren't worth the paper they're printed on.—Royce Brier in San Francisco Chronicle.

Churchill the Meddler

Prime Minister Churchill in his speech at the Lord Mayor's luncheon in which he predicted that the climax of this war will take place in 1944, went far out of his way to insert this sentence in his speech:

"THIS YEAR 1944 IS ALSO AN ELECTION YEAR IN THE UNITED STATES."

Now, an election here is strictly an affair that concerns the American people.

But in making the declarative statement that "this year, 1944, is also election year in the United States", Mr. Churchill no doubt intended to call the attention of the American people to the fact that he would be gratified if they voted right.

"It is a strange coincidence, but I am sure I speak for all those on both sides of the Atlantic who mean the same thing, and they are numbered by scores of millions, when I say that our supreme duty—all of us, British and American alike—is to preserve that good-will which now exists throughout the English-speaking world and thus aid our armies in their grim and heavy task."

Just what did Mr. Churchill imply or foretell when he spoke of the presidential election next fall as "a strange coincidence".

The Prime Minister knows very well that our Presidential elections every four years are not "strange coincidences" but are MANDATED BY THE CONSTITUTION. Is it any part of the Atlantic Charter to influence or eliminate American elections?

Is Mr. Churchill asking us to postpone our Presidential and Congressional elections and even to junk the Constitution?

If it is the "supreme duty" of Britishers and Americans to preserve "good-will" for one another, as Mr. Churchill says, then surely one of the best ways of preserving that good-will is for the Prime Minister of England to keep his fingers out of our domestic affairs.

Mr. Churchill should be satisfied at having gotten us into this war, as he declared to his approving Parliament. He should not try to run our internal affairs as well.

If we are going to perform our supreme duty as Mr. Churchill sees it we ought at least be allowed to perform it in our own American way.

Therefore, in all kindness and consideration we urge Mr. Churchill kindly to mind his own business and not try to run our politics.

The people of the United States of America are still independent and mentally competent.

MY ADVENTURES IN AMERICA

By C. Leon de Aryan

WHAT THE NAME SAYS

This is written on Dec. 26, 1943 in the Kitchen of my residence at 6 am, war time.

Those of you who have been patiently wading thru the previous installments of this book story must of course be rewarded with the secret that makes life tick in this world. If you consider me a machine organism, to understand my operations you have to know what type of make the machine is and what the driving power is. This chapter will tell the secret.

Recently, while in San Francisco, I met Julia Seaton again. She is a wizzard with Numerology. She cast my name, Constantin Leon de Aryan, and said: "The Messenger, the Message, of Nobility." And added: "Your instrument is complete", meaning that the words of the name, subconsciously provide the proper means of expression to convey my character and purpose here on earth. Naturally, this was attended to, long ago.

The way I arrange my name is, I merely indicate the first name by C, which has the same value as the whole name. Kabalists can figure it out also. Real smart Jews have always treated me with great respect, even reverence. It's the Jew-trash, like the poor white trash, that disapproves of my public activities.

Inconspicously, the C stands for Jack of all Trades, and I have tried my hand at practically everything, too, to get a working knowledge. But the vowels in the first name add up in digit to Seven, the Messenger, the Priest in the Temple, while the consonants digit to Five, Emancipation. Combined, it looks like a stick of common clay, but it is dynamite.

Leon just walks alone, it seems, but the mate is never far, and he always looks out for her. The vowels digit Eleven, the Message, the consonants Eight, perfect expression, together the One, the Pioneer, the Lion on the prowl.

de Aryan, because of the Y which some consider a vowel, others a consonant, permits various and flexible calculations, all to my advantage when working among people. The sum total digits Five, Emancipation. One may separate the de from Aryan and the last name still remains Emancipation. With Y as a consonant Aryan spells the Message again, Eleven. The vowels of the 2 words together digit "Freedom's Message", the consonants: Messenger in the Temple.

Considering Y a vowel, Aryan spells Love of Humanity in vowel digit, and the consonants are back to Emancipation. Whichever way one looks at it, that de Aryan fellow simply stands up for Freedom and supported by the Leon and Constantin mechanism cannot be held back. When bad gets worse, there the dynamite explodes right in your face, for the C is the most inconspicous, but tremendous factor of them all.

My favored name is Kosti. Vowels digit Six, the fellow who is domestic. The consonants digit Five: In all his domesticity he remains a free agent. That takes a great woman to keep him company. The sum total digits Eleven, the Message. Thus in these few letters and two syllables, the whole of the instrumentality of the larger name is contained. And my intimate friends sense it.

Born on Aug. 18, 1886, in Dorohoi, Rumania, the birthpath figures to 22 according to some authorities and to 4 in other's view. 22 is the master number, while 4 means four square.

Astrologically, of course, it makes me a Leo. But physiologically I am of the canine tribe, unbounded loyalty. Combining the traits of dog and cat tribes produces an exceptional mentality.

Naturally, I am not going to argue with you here whether Numerology and Astrology means anything. These are matters for you to discover. Your ignorance may be bliss to you, it spells ignorance to me. Of course, nature has endowed you with peculiar means for survival. You may laugh at all these sciences of the "Fortune teller", like Palmistry and all the other Readings, still, you have your own way when interpreting your hunches. And a hunch is a hunch. You are in the same boat with me, superstitious if you prefer that word, or is it?

WOMAN, the DRIVING POWER

Men are funny creatures, Lords of creation, but wherever you find a man look for the woman who gave him birth. We cannot get along with women and we cannot get along without them. Thus I am reconciled to make the best of it. This is the world I find myself in and I must learn my lessons.

The driving power in my life is the longing for perfect bliss.

I noticed it ever since I can think back. And whenever I met a woman, already as a tot, I always expected her to bring me that perfect bliss.

I explain this to myself by way of past incarnations. I must have succeeded to find women who were actually divine beings in the flesh. From my recollections, I was very active in the Platonic schools, as well as in various temple schools of ancient days. There we must have succeeded in producing women who embodied intelligence with beauty and emotion, which means consideration and divination. Divination is the main virtue of a woman, and how the present generation lacks it. Generally it has been reduced to intuition, but divination is by far superior. Woman must divine your needs, anticipate them.

In our temples, naturally, the women thus developed, were exceptional women. The cream of human evolution. But I must have been in their natural company, for as a tot, whenever I saw a woman I expected her to be divinity incarnate. This expectation has not been killed in me through the continous chain of disappointments. That means that I must have actually had the experience of living in the family environment of such women, not once, but many a time, because it is part of my being to expect such high requirements of WOMAN and nothing less satisfies.

In this line I am a very vulnerable person. While not expecting miracles from the average woman who, like all of us, is just a passing figure, a fact noticed and recorded, a number among the millions of inhabitants; the exceptional woman, once I spot her, calls out that painful nostalgia for HOME. I am a home body. I want retirement. I am really very shy and want to be left alone, to be myself in quiet, with my loved ones who enjoy my peculiar style of being.

Of course, already as a child I received terrific blows of disappointment..My mother beat me up mercilessly. So did my grand mother. Mother says that I told her repeatedly: "People who do not love me cannot be good"; and I can understand why I must have said it. I lived like a somnambulist in a dream world of past memories, populated by marvelous men and women, boys and girls, as we used to have them in our Pythagorean and Platonic schools. You see, I was a prominent instructor in those institutions and you had my name many a time on your lips when you learend classic Greek literature.

The beauty of things known and materialized is that they survive death. All the painful shocks of life have not diminished an iota my worship of true womanhood. Woman is the redeemer of humanity. You can say all the bad things you want to about her, but the mother of Jesus had to be a woman. You may conjecture about his father, but there is no question about the mother. And wherever you find a great man, look for the woman who inspired his greatness.

The average ignorant person may ignore this law of expression, but you just study the biographies of all men of genius. You'll find that some insignificant woman was his slave. She slaved, I am telling you. She loved him and served his needs. He was irritable, scolded her, even beat her, but she had seen the genius in him and was not going to betray her faith in his genius. The male was a fool to her, but the genius in that man deserved her service. She was divine in all her humbleness. She divined the greatness in him and stuck by her guns come hell and high water.

And there is the woman who was not his slave but his companion. They were well mated. Without her his life was drab. She inspired all his lofty thought. And she, a good housewife, looked after his personal comfort. This faith which woman has in the man she admires is the mainspring of his success.

We must understand that woman also drags man down, and many a man failed because of her. My failures as a child are ascribable to my mother and other relatives.

But did that lessen my high regard for women? Not an iota. I learned to realize that woman is not to be trusted, that she is ignorant, etc. But that relates to specific individuals. The general high level of expectation has not been affected. I am still looking for WOMAN, as I know her, not from dreams, not from illusions, but from memory and present telepathic contact. Those beings who once were my most intimate relatives, or co-eds, or pupils in our schools, they have maintained that finer contact that time and space does not affect.

Have you noticed that when you loved a person really well, and your love was fully reciprocated so that at times there was perfect, intimate understanding between you, even though that person died since, that sense of understanding persists as soon as you recall it. All you need do is recall it. If you center your attention on it, and do it rightly, you can by that sense commune again with your loved one regardless of time and space differential. The communion might be vague in shape but true in essence.

And so whenever I met an exceptional woman, I hoped that I had found one of "our girls". But I have learned since, from bitter experience, that one swallow does not make a summer. She has one or two or more qualities developed which equal "our girls" but in the main she still is not up to the level which the divine woman, as I know her, represents.

I could have had many wonderful girls as my friends today. But I was very impatient. I did not know in those years that my business here is to make contact with those of exceptional qualities and then bear and forbear with them to bring out and cultivate the full woman. This is a common fault in all of us. When a person does not come up to first expectations we drop them, we even turn against them.

Of course this is mutual. At my first sign of impatience, the woman sensing my disappointment jumped the gun and turned on me with all the freezing out resources at her command. That gave her the advanage and really I am glad she took advantage of this privilege of kicking me out first. You see, love is very peculiar, when it is love. You are happy to see them protect themselves against coming disaster. The woman who has presence of mind to decide first to break up a friendship can continue her initiative without nursing a wound. I got the wound. And they sure hurt. Not my pride. I have none, to speak of, but I must know where I failed, where I made a mistake, why, how.

There are many on the list. I can say that most of them lost more than I did. But all factors considered it was inevitable. My background, from my family side, was ignorance. What I know came up through the school of hard knocks and painful experience. And all these failures had to be capitalized.

Here is where my advantage lies. When I lost my mother, my mate, everyone of my sweethearts, and my lastest "goddess", I kept a perfect imprint of them in my heart. Once a being enters my heart they live there forever. I take their "record cards" up and examine them from time to time. While I mentioned in this chapter women, I have also men in these files which I take up from time to time.. There are men who placed much faith and effort in being my friends. Luckily, most of the men are still my friends. Only a few of the women survived the test.

But as I examine the files where every incident and peculiar circumstance is inscribed I become acquainted with actual humanity. No matter what they did, or I did, the really lovely incidents stand out clearly and all that detracted and finally destroyed our good friendship is scrutinized under the microscope, as it were. Everything is taken up for cause and effect and so noted. Next incarnation, when I'll meet those same loved ones, they'll get the surprise of their lives, for I have learned much from retrospection and added experiences, and I know wherein I failed.

You can see, that the Love which is my main spring in life, and yours, drives us on for perfection. We strive to understand, cooperate and persist until our heart can be at ease, because we succeeded in producing the enviroooment we need to feel at home. And home is not merely the physical abode, home is that atmosphere exuded by those you love and who reciprocate in kind.

The producer of home, the priestess of the home, is mother, the mate. And your mate divines your needs. That makes her your mate.

The woman, as God proposes her to be in the perfect stage of evolution, is an intelligent person who is a complete physician, bio-chemist, psychiatrist, artist, besides having all the domestic qualifications of the old style housewife who can manage a home to be the comfort of her family. Because of her high level of intelligence she knows that every individual in her family is a distinct and different person. She knows the needs of everyone of them as you know that chickens, goats and horses have different needs and she sees to it that all wants are satisfied at the proper moment.

Giving Away Our Taxes

Here is an interesting item on taxation.

Lend-lease shipments (in reality gift shipments) have now reached a rate of $1,250,000,000 a month, or 15 billions a year.

For the fiscal year ended last June 30, collections of individual and corporate income taxes and excess profits taxes totaled about 15 billions.

So our income taxes are being used mainly to pay for gifts of arms, ammunition, clothing, food, drugs, etc., etc., to our allies and to nations we hope to make our allies. To train, clothe, feed, ship and supply our fighting boys, the Government mainly borrows the money via war bonds.

Bernarr Macfadden on Pogroms

NEW YORK— An ambiguous article after the style of the editorials in Father Coughlin's Social Justice has appeared in the January issue of the pulp-magazine, New Physical Culture, under the byline of its publisher, the pulp-magazine magnate, Bernarr Macfadden. The article, headlined "Health— Jewish Question— Pogroms", was announced in advertisements in a number of metropolitan dailies.

MacFadden claims that "all over this country at the present time, the question is being asked, usually in a mysterious undertone, 'When will the pogroms begin', and I doubt if even the middle aged citizens of this country will ever see such a hideous tragedy. But if the Jewish race, with only about three or four per cent of the population, should finally control all the great business and professional groups, no-one can tell what human greed and selfishness may develop, and we are not so far removed from savagery as has been definitely proven in this brutal war."

"Great Respect"

He then says that "throughout the years I have acquired a great respect for the race, even in spite of the huge financial losses, totaling into millions, that I have incurred through the chicanery of some of them. As a race they are clever traders and 'sharp practices' are frequently used, but they do not by any means monopolize these characteristics."

Mouthing the Nazi lies that "the Jews monopolized nearly all of what may be termed the outstanding positions in Germany . . . and they were a small minority," the pulp-publisher ascribes "the superior qualities of the Jews," to their "rules of life, religiously, dietetically and otherwise, (which) are of a nature to develop superior health."

He then concludes with: "We are doing a splendid job in training our soldiers, but the general public should be made to give more attention to the necessity of raising the health status of the nation. Wholesale massacre of the Jewish race adopted by Hitler is an unthinkable return to savagery, but even cold-blooded reasoning would indicate that we should acquire the intelligence necessary to compete with them." —B'nai B'rith Messenger.

WHITE DEMOCRATIC PARTY HELD LEGAL

AUSTIN (Tex.)—There is no constitutional reason why "the white Democrats in Texas may not organize for themselves a political party," Attorney General Gerald C. Mann argued in a brief prepared for the United States Supreme Court.

The brief will be filed in the case of Lonnie E. Smith versus S. E. Allwright, a Harris County election judge. Smith, a Negro, alleged he was barred from voting in a 1940 primary and is seeking a determination of whether Negroes may vote in a Democratic primary to nominate candidates for Congress.
